

Harrison Township

Macomb County, Michigan

Harrison Township is located in southeast Macomb County along the shores of Lake St. Clair. Harrison Township is home to Selfridge Air National Guard Base which comprises much of the northern one third of the Township. The Clinton River flows through the heart of the Township and discharges its waters into Lake St. Clair.

The population and landscape of Harrison Township has changed relatively little in recent decades. The 2000 population of 24,461 residents enjoy a host of water related recreation opportunities. Metropolitan Beach, one of the three regional Metroparks within the County, offers residents year round recreation activities. A bike path located adjacent to Metropolitan Parkway provides Township residents with a pleasant, non-motorized, link to Metro Beach Metropark.

Interstate 94 provides swift north-south travel along the western edge of the community with four interchanges servicing the Township. This high-speed route linked with the east-west transportation corridor formed by Metropolitan Parkway, makes Harrison Township one of the most accessible locations in Macomb County. An area of expanding industrial activity adjoins I-94 north of the Clinton River, providing both employment and a strong tax base.
